Mr. Patterson is a man who is doing things in the mountains. He owns and cultivates one of the best, if not the best, farm—in fact two farms—in Watauga County. The "Meat Camp" farm, five miles north of Boone, the county seat of Watauga County, some 290 acres, is like the picture of a beautiful garden in a vast wilderness. It is named "Meat Camp" from the fact that in the early days, upon its broad and beautiful meadows, through which flows a stream as clear as crystal, the flows a stream as clear as crystal, the flows a stream as clear as crystal, the wa a stream as clear as crystal, the orought there the wild game they killed, and distributed it among the tribes in a meat feast. The farm itself, in brief, is an awakening—the realization of the possibilities which have lain dormant for years in a land needing only the attention of the practical and scientific tiller of the soil in a progressive way. Every setting haze a picture of mountain loveliness no artist has yet placed on canvas, smiling under intelligent cultivation of every mountain like mosaiced Brusthe day-god, from a mountain throne, kiss these peaceful pasts pictures good night, with a blessing. Mr. Patterson's second farm, eight miles further north, in Watauga, and Richmond & Petersburg Electric Railway

On the "Meat Camp" farm this year Mr. Patterson will harvest eighty tons of the finest hay that it is possible to produce in the most fertile spot to be found in North Carolina. He will gather 700 bushels of corn; 200 bushels of buckwheat, and eight tons of pea hay, which is a new crop up here he is experimenting with; besides a great deal of other farm products and vegetables of the finest quality.

On the two farms Mr. Patterson is present prices.

Of this quantity, according to M.
